WorkCover WA Industry Classification Order

Introduction

The WorkCover WA Industry Classification Order is made under section 253 of the Workers Compensation and Injury Management Act 2023 and provides for the industry based premium rating classification system used in Western Australia for the purpose of calculating premiums for workers compensation insurance policies.

The WorkCover WA Industry Classification Order is effective 1 July 2024.

The WorkCover WA Industry Classification Order provides for the assignment of WorkCover WA Premium Rating Codes (PRCs) to identify an employer's industry.

The industry based premium rating system is primarily based on the Australian and New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification coding system (ANZSIC 2006).

The WorkCover WA Industry Classification Order therefore adopts, with some modifications, the Australian and New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification – catalogue number 1292 – published by the Australian Bureau of Statistics.

Overview of Order

1. Section 1 of this Order provides an overview of the structure of ANZSIC 2006. Also refer to ABS ANZSIC 06 Desktop Search Engine
2. Section 2 of this Order provides a description of WorkCover WA PRC codes
3. Section 3 of this Order sets out the WorkCover WA PRC variations to certain ANZSIC codes as modified by this Order
4. Section 4 of this Order sets out the coding rules that apply to determine which WorkCover WA PRC to assign to a business activity
5. Section 5 of this Order includes a flowchart for guidance in assigning WorkCover WA PRCs to business activities
6. Section 6 sets out the full list of WorkCover WA PRC codes.

WorkCover WA also fixes from time to time recommended premium rates that apply to each of the 517 industry classes to which the WorkCover WA Industry Classification Order applies. WorkCover WA's recommended premium rates are published on the WorkCover WA website.

Section 1 - ANZSIC 2006 Structure

The ANZSIC 2006 system is a hierarchical classification with four levels:

- Division (the broadest level)
- Subdivision
- Group
- Class (the finest level).

ANZSIC Divisional Classes

A	Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing	K	Financial and Insurance Services
B	Mining	L	Rental, Hiring and Real Estate Services
C	Manufacturing	M	Professional, Scientific and Technical Services
D	Electricity, Gas, Water and Waste Services	N	Administrative and Support Services
E	Construction	O	Public Administration and Safety
F	Wholesale Trade	P	Education and Training
G	Retail Trade	Q	Health Care and Social Assistance
H	Accommodation and Food Services	R	Arts and Recreation
I	Transport, Postal and Warehousing	S	Other Services
J	Information Media and Telecommunications

At the Divisional level, the main purpose is to provide a limited number of categories which provide a broad overall picture of similar economic activities. The Subdivision, Group and Class levels provide increasingly detailed dissections of these categories for the compilation of more specific and detailed statistics. In Western Australia, recommended premium rates are set at the class level.

The numbering system adopted in ANZSIC is alphanumeric and has a hierarchical structure (see example below), where the leading alpha character denotes the industry division. The ANZSIC subdivision, group and class levels are denoted by numeric codes.

Example of ANZSIC hierarchical structure

Level	Example
Division	C Manufacturing
Subdivision	11 Food Product Manufacturing
Group	111 Meat and Meat Product Manufacturing
Class	1111 Meat Processing

Section 2 - WorkCover WA Premium Rating Codes

The WorkCover WA Premium Rating Codes (PRC) used to identify an employer's industry are adapted from the ANZSIC coding system. In general this is achieved by adding a "0" to the end of each ANZSIC code. However, there are some instances where the industry classification varies from the ANZSIC (see section 3).

Specifically, industries that have similar economic activities but present a significantly different workers compensation risk have been identified and allocated a separate, individual PRC code (WA specific codes). The specific variations are set out at in section 3 and modify the codes used for following ANZSIC classes:

- Labour Supply Services
- Oil and Gas Extraction
- Gold Ore Mining
- Other non-metallic mineral mining and quarrying
- Other mining support services
- Other non-metallic mineral product manufacturing
- Fresh meat, fish and poultry retailing
- Other water transport support services
- Sports grounds and facilities n.e.c./Sports and physical recreation venues, grounds and facilities operation
- Laundry and dry cleaners
- Private households employing staff

Section 4 – WorkCover WA PRC coding rules

There are recommended premium rates published for 517 industry classes all of which have a specific WorkCover WA PRC. The PRC applicable to an employer will depend on the employer's predominant business activity as determined in accordance with this Order.

PRC based on predominant business activity

The relevant PRC is the one that corresponds to or most closely describes the employer's predominant business activity. The predominant business activity is the one with the largest aggregate remuneration paid to workers over the policy period.

There should be one PRC for an employer, unless specified below regarding:

- a) More than one business activity and business location
- b) Labour supply.

One location but different business activities = 1 PRC

Where an employer operates more than one business activity at the same geographical location, the PRC allocated will be the one that is the predominant business activity. The PRC will apply to all business activities of the employer at that location.

Example – one location different business activities

Company A performs plumbing and tiling services.

70% of Company A's wages are for plumbing and 30% are for tiling performed.

The predominant business activity of company A is plumbing services.

Result: Company A will be assigned PRC 32310

More than one location and different business activities = multiple PRCs

More than one PRC may be allocated to an employer if –

- a) the employer carries on more than one business activity; and
- b) each business activity operates from separate and distinct geographical locations; and
- c) the business activities are not incidental to each other, i.e. –
  - (i) they operate effectively without the other
  - (ii) one does not provide essential support to the other
  - (iii) goods produced or acquired by one business activity are not used in the other business activity
  - (iv) workers engaged by the employer do not work across different business activities
  - (v) the business activities do not have the same customers

The allocation of separate PRCs to an employer's policy will correspond to or most closely describe each of the employer's business activities.

Example – more than one location & different business activities

Company B operates two businesses: a petrol station and a café, located 20km apart.

80% of Company B's wages are for operating the cafe and 20% are for operating the petrol station.

Are the business activities incidental to each other?

Both activities operate from different shop fronts 20km apart and are separate businesses in their own right. They exist without each other. One business activity retails fuel, the other operates a cafe. These activities are not essential to each other. Both activities have workers independent of each other and different customers. The business activities do not provide essential support to each other.

Company B carries on more than one business activity, operating from separate locations and the activities are not incidental to each other.

Result: Company B will be assigned both PRC 40000 Fuel Retailing & PRC 45110 Cafes and Restaurants. The aggregate wages of workers at each location will be declared under each respective PRC.

Head office or service support to employer

Where an employer operates a head office or establishes a separate service entity to provide administrative or clerical support solely to that employer, the relevant PRC is the one that corresponds to the predominant business activity of the employer.

Where there is more than one PRC for that employer (more than one location and different business activities) the relevant PRC for workers providing administrative or clerical support is the employer's PRC with the largest aggregate remuneration paid to workers over the policy period.

Example 1 – separate service entity or head office providing administrative support to one business activity

Company C is a large construction company. Their PRC is 30200 Non-Residential Building Construction. They set up Company D to provide administration services to Company C and no other entity.

Are the business activities incidental to each other?

Both activities operate from different locations and have workers independent of each other. However they cannot exist without each other. Company D provides essential support solely to company C. In this example the business activities are incidental to each other.

Result: Company D will be assigned PRC 30200 Non-Residential Building Construction. The aggregate wages of workers working with Company C and Company D will be combined and declared under PRC 30200.

Example 2 – separate service entity or head office providing administrative support to more than one business activity

Company E is a large construction company that has two businesses that are not incidental to each other:

- a) PRC 30200 Non-Residential Building Construction
- b) PRC 19190 Other Polymer Product Manufacturing

Company E sets up Company F to provide administration services to Company E. Because company E has two different PRCs it is necessary to determine which PRC to allocate to company F.

Company F will be allocated to the employer's PRC with the largest aggregate remuneration paid to workers over the policy period. In this example 70% of workers' aggregate wages are paid to support Non- Residential Building Construction.

Result: Company F will be assigned PRC 30200 Non-Residential Building Construction.

Labour Supply Services

Different PRC industry classification rules apply to the following labour hire arrangements:

- labour hire employers supplying predominantly non-clerical staff to host employers
- labour hire employers supplying predominantly clerical staff to host employers

Labour Supply Services – not elsewhere classified (rate as per Industry)

Where a labour hire company supplies workers (other than predominantly clerical staff) to a client host employer's business on a fee or contract basis and the work is performed under the supervision of the host employer or at the host employer's work site, the relevant PRC is the one that represents the predominant business activity of the host employer to which workers are supplied.

This category applies to most labour hire arrangements.

Example – non clerical workers supplied to a host employer

A labourer, project manager, engineer and accountant are supplied to a mineral exploration business. The appropriate industry classification is 10120 (Mineral Exploration) and all of the workers' wages would be assigned and declared under the same PRC.

N.B – Use the PRC code that applies to the predominant business activity of the host employer, not the occupation of the worker.

Labour Supply Services - Predominantly Clerical Staff

Where a labour hire company supplies predominantly clerical workers to a host employer's business on a fee or contract basis and the work is performed under the supervision of the host employer or at the host employer's work site, the relevant PRC is 72120 Labour Supply Services (Predominantly Clerical Staff).

Example – labour hire company supplies predominantly clerical staff to host client

A labour hire company specialises in supplying clerical staff (e.g. receptionists, office assistants) to host employers. The appropriate industry classification is PRC 72120 Labour Supply Services – Predominantly Clerical Staff and each worker's wages would be declared under PRC 72120.

N.B – use PRC 72120 only if the labour hire company supplies predominantly clerical staff to host employers over the course of the insurance period.

A labour hire company's staff that support the administration of the labour hire company and are not supplied to any third party host employer, are to be classified under PRC 72910 Office Administrative Services.

Employment Placement and Recruitment Services (PRC 72110) should not be used by labour hire companies where the predominant activity is supplying workers to a host employer.
